The camp, uniquely crafted by LuskinoIC therapists, will provide an experience for first time athletes and kids of different abilities. It will feature crafts, adapted calisthenics, multiple adaptive sports clinics and light competitions, and team building games and activities. Skilled LuskinoIC professionals will be on hand throughout the event alongside counselors from Angel City Sports and trained volunteers to encourage safe participation. Although independent participation is strongly encouraged, for campers requiring direct assistance, parents, guardians or caregivers are welcome. Snacks and lunches will be provided throughout the camp. However, alternative arrangements should be made for campers with specialized feeding programs.
